Think Outside the Pipeline (see Fringe Festival show Music for Children and Other Curious People)

Folk duo Ants on a Log (Julie Beth and Anya Rose) write music for children and other childlike people, songfully advocating for positivity, social justice, and silliness. They have been featured on XPN's Kids Corner, at the Philadelphia Folk Fest, and on radio stations around the globe. In 2016 the Ants performed their debut musical Curious: Think Outside the Pipeline, using the power of eco-feminist music and humor to encourage families to stay "curious" about alternatives to fossil fuels.

When: September 15 and 22

Where: Children's Community School, 1212 South 47th Street in West Philly (9/15)

By My Side, 1542 E Montgomery Avenue , at Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Atonement in Fishtown (9/22)

The ABCs of ADHD & Executive Functioning: Empowering Kids for Success in School and in Life

Benchmark School is honored to have Dr. Sharon Saline share her valuable insights and recommendations about living with ADHD with parents and educators at this evening workshop. She will help you understand the key aspects of executive functioning skills and why they are critical to children's cognitive and emotional development. In addition to reviewing how executive functioning skills affect all types of learners (especially children with ADHD), she will offer concrete strategies for teachers and parents to use to build these skills at school and improve students' academic performance and social relationships, emphasizing the importance of home/school collaboration for nurturing these skills.

When: Tuesday, October 9, 7:00 - 9:00 pm

Where: Benchmark School, 2107 North Providence Road, Media
