Connecting Dots: Ulysses Andrews '94

After Miquon, Ulysses Andrews went on to attend Germantown Academy and then Princeton, where he majored in Mathematics.

He earned his master’s in Mathematics with a focus on Fourier Analysis from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and his doctoral degree from the University of Connecticut with a dissertation on Fractals.

Lipshutz's experiences, including a summer program at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention,

to her life's goal.

As a self-identified “passionate scientist and social justice advocate,” she realized that working in public health will allow her to pursue her love of science and medicine while reaching a greater number of people in need.

And she believes that Miquon’s holistic education laid the foundation of her personal desire to help and care for others.
